

Complaints Made Against Police Personnel Versaterm Professional Standards Training Series

About the Complaints Made Against Police Personnel Course

Designed for beginners, this training is built to support new Professional Standards Investigators, Police Commanders, Field Supervisors or anyone else at a law enforcement agency who may be involved with investigating complaints made against police personnel. This course will address complaints in detail, equipping agencies with the knowledge and skills needed to carry out investigations with confidence, compliance and ease, no matter the size or structure of your agency.

The four-part online course will run for one week. Registration price is $995 USD. The following topics will be covered:

- Overview of Professional Standards, including a Professional Standards Investigator's role, structure and responsibilities
- Processes for receiving and handling complaints, detailing complaint basics, forms, intake errors, assessment and tracking
- Investigation procedures, conducting investigations, planning, evidence handling, interviews (reporting party, non-accused employees, accused employees) and report writing, including format and findings
- Disciplinary process, including types of discipline, due process and just cause for discipline
